Classification: Internal Use Only

1. PURPOSE

Nexora Technologies Pvt. Ltd. recognizes that certain roles can be performed effectively outside a traditional office environment.

This Remote Work Policy establishes guidelines for employees who are approved to work remotely or under a hybrid working arrangement.

The purpose of this policy is to:

- Provide flexibility where business requirements permit
- Maintain employee productivity and accountability
- Protect company and customer information
- Establish clear communication expectations
- Define equipment and workspace requirements
- Support effective collaboration between remote and office-based employees

Remote work is intended to support business effectiveness and employee flexibility. It does not change an employee's responsibilities, performance expectations, or obligation to comply with company policies.

2. SCOPE

This policy applies to employees who have been formally approved for remote or hybrid work.

Remote work eligibility may vary based on:

- Job responsibilities
- Department
- Customer requirements
- Security requirements
- Employee performance

- Business continuity requirements
- Geographic and legal considerations
- Manager approval

Not all positions are suitable for remote work.

Roles requiring physical presence, specialized equipment, direct customer interaction, or secure facilities may require regular office attendance.

3. DEFINITIONS

3.1 Remote Work

Remote work means performing assigned job responsibilities from an approved location outside a Nexora office.

3.2 Hybrid Work

Hybrid work is an arrangement where an employee works part of the time remotely and part of the time from a Nexora office or other approved workplace.

3.3 Fully Remote Employee

A fully remote employee is authorized to perform their regular responsibilities remotely without a routine office attendance requirement.

3.4 Approved Remote Location

An approved remote location is a location from which the employee has been authorized to perform company work.

Employees must notify their manager and HR if they intend to permanently change their primary remote work location.

4. ELIGIBILITY

Remote work is generally available only to employees whose roles can be performed effectively outside the office.

Eligibility may be evaluated based on:

- Nature of the role
- Employee performance
- Reliability
- Ability to work independently
- Team collaboration requirements
- Data security requirements

- Customer commitments
- Business needs

Remote work approval is not an automatic employee benefit and may be modified or withdrawn when business circumstances require.

5. APPROVAL PROCESS

Employees who wish to work remotely must obtain approval through the process established by their department and HR.

A remote work request may include:

- Proposed work location
- Requested schedule
- Remote or hybrid arrangement
- Expected duration
- Business justification where required
- Equipment requirements

Employees must not begin a new remote arrangement without the required approval.

6. HYBRID WORK ARRANGEMENTS

Hybrid employees may be required to work from the office on designated days.

For example, a department may establish:

Office days: Tuesday and Thursday

Remote days: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday

Schedules may vary between teams.

Managers may adjust office attendance requirements based on:

- Customer meetings
- Team events
- Project requirements
- Training
- Business emergencies
- Operational requirements

Employees will be provided reasonable notice whenever practical.

7. WORKING HOURS

Remote employees are expected to maintain their approved working schedule.

The standard company working hours are:

Monday–Friday
9:00 AM–6:00 PM

Employees must remain available during agreed working hours unless they are on an approved break, leave, or otherwise authorized to be unavailable.

Working remotely does not mean employees are expected to work continuously outside normal working hours.

8. AVAILABILITY

Employees should remain reasonably reachable through approved communication channels during working hours.

Approved communication channels may include:

- Company email
- Internal messaging
- Video conferencing
- Project management systems
- Phone

Employees should communicate planned periods of unavailability with their manager or team.

9. ATTENDANCE

Remote employees are subject to the same attendance expectations as office-based employees.

Employees must:

- Begin work according to their approved schedule
- Attend required meetings
- Complete assigned responsibilities
- Record attendance where required
- Inform managers about unexpected absences

Remote work should not be used as a substitute for approved leave.

If an employee is unable to work due to illness, they must follow the normal leave procedure.

10. PRODUCTIVITY AND PERFORMANCE

Employees working remotely are expected to maintain the same standards of performance as employees working from the office.

Performance may be assessed based on:

- Quality of work
- Completion of assigned responsibilities
- Meeting project deadlines
- Communication
- Collaboration
- Customer outcomes
- Reliability
- Achievement of agreed objectives

Managers should focus on measurable outcomes rather than simply monitoring whether an employee is physically online.

11. COMMUNICATION EXPECTATIONS

Remote employees are expected to communicate proactively.

Employees should:

- Keep calendars updated
- Attend required meetings
- Respond to important messages within a reasonable timeframe
- Provide status updates when requested
- Communicate blockers early
- Document important project decisions

Silence or lack of communication during critical situations may be treated as a performance concern.

12. VIDEO CONFERENCING

Employees may be required to participate in video meetings.

Employees should:

- Join meetings on time
- Use an appropriate professional environment

- Mute when not speaking
- Minimize background distractions
- Use headphones where appropriate
- Protect confidential information visible on screen

Camera usage may depend on team norms, meeting purpose, and manager expectations.

13. REMOTE WORKSPACE

Employees are responsible for maintaining a suitable workspace.

The workspace should provide:

- Reliable internet connectivity
- Appropriate lighting
- Reasonable privacy
- Suitable seating
- Adequate electrical access
- A professional environment for meetings

Employees should avoid performing confidential work in locations where unauthorized individuals can view or hear company information.

14. INTERNET REQUIREMENTS

Remote employees are responsible for maintaining a reliable internet connection sufficient for their role.

Employees should use secure Wi-Fi networks.

Public or unsecured Wi-Fi should not be used for sensitive company activities unless an approved security solution is active.

If connectivity problems prevent an employee from performing their duties, the employee should notify their manager and IT support.

15. COMPANY EQUIPMENT

Nexora may provide equipment required for remote work.

Equipment may include:

- Laptop
- Monitor

- Keyboard and mouse
- Headset
- Security token
- Other approved accessories

Employees are responsible for taking reasonable care of company equipment.

Company equipment must not be used by family members, friends, or other unauthorized individuals.

16. PERSONAL DEVICES

Employees should use company-provided devices for company work whenever required.

Personal devices may only be used for business activities when permitted by IT and company security policies.

Employees must not copy confidential company information to personal devices without authorization.

17. INFORMATION SECURITY

Remote employees must follow all company information security requirements.

Employees must:

- Use strong passwords
- Use multi-factor authentication where required
- Lock devices when unattended
- Install required security updates
- Use approved applications
- Report suspicious activity
- Protect company credentials
- Follow data classification requirements

Employees must not disable antivirus, endpoint protection, encryption, or other required security controls.

18. VPN AND SECURE ACCESS

Employees may be required to use a company-approved VPN or other secure access mechanism when accessing internal systems.

Employees must not attempt to bypass company security controls.

If secure access is unavailable, employees should contact IT Support rather than using unauthorized methods.

19. CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Remote employees may have access to confidential business and customer information.

Employees must take reasonable precautions to prevent unauthorized access.

Confidential information must not be:

- Displayed where unauthorized individuals can see it
 - Discussed in public places where conversations can be overheard
 - Stored in unauthorized applications
 - Shared through personal email
 - Uploaded to unauthorized cloud storage
 - Printed unnecessarily

20. PAPER DOCUMENTS

Employees should minimize printing confidential company information when working remotely.

If confidential documents are printed, employees must securely store and dispose of them.

Confidential documents must not be placed in ordinary household recycling or trash where they could be accessed by unauthorized individuals.

21. USE OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE TOOLS

Employees working remotely must follow Nexora's AI usage and information security requirements.

Employees must not submit confidential, customer, proprietary, or restricted company information to public AI tools unless the tool has been approved for such use.

AI-generated work must be reviewed before being used for business-critical purposes.

Employees remain responsible for the accuracy and security of work created with AI assistance.

22. DATA PRIVACY

Remote employees must protect personal information relating to customers, employees, applicants, vendors, and other individuals.

Personal information should only be accessed when required for legitimate business purposes.

Employees must immediately report suspected privacy or security incidents to the appropriate company team.

23. HOME OFFICE EXPENSES

The company may reimburse certain remote work expenses where approved by company policy.

Potentially reimbursable expenses may include:

- Approved equipment
- Business-related internet expenses
- Certain communication costs
- Ergonomic equipment
- Other approved work-related expenses

Employees must obtain approval before making significant purchases for remote work.

Personal household expenses are generally not reimbursable unless specifically approved.

24. ERGONOMICS

Employees are encouraged to maintain a safe and ergonomically appropriate workspace.

Employees should:

- Use a suitable chair
- Maintain appropriate monitor height
- Take regular breaks
- Avoid prolonged uncomfortable positions
- Keep cables and equipment organized

Employees experiencing work-related ergonomic concerns should contact HR or the appropriate workplace support team.

25. HEALTH AND SAFETY

Employees working remotely are responsible for maintaining a reasonably safe work environment.

Employees should report work-related injuries or safety concerns through the company's established process.

The company may provide reasonable guidance or support for creating a safe remote workspace.

26. BUSINESS CONTINUITY

Employees may be required to work remotely during business continuity events such as:

- Severe weather
- Natural disasters
- Building closures
- Public emergencies
- Infrastructure disruptions
- Other operational incidents

During such events, employees should follow instructions issued by management, HR, IT, or the Business Continuity team.

27. CUSTOMER REQUIREMENTS

Certain customers may require employees to work from specific locations or facilities.

Where customer requirements conflict with a remote work arrangement, the customer requirement may take precedence where contractually or operationally necessary.

Managers will communicate applicable customer requirements to affected employees.

28. WORKING FROM ANOTHER LOCATION

Employees must not permanently relocate their remote work location without notifying HR and their manager.

Working temporarily from another city, country, or jurisdiction may require additional approval due to:

- Tax considerations
- Employment regulations
- Data protection requirements
- Immigration requirements
- Security concerns
- Customer contracts

Employees should obtain approval before working internationally unless specifically authorized.

29. TRAVEL WHILE WORKING REMOTELY

Remote employees should not assume that they may work from any location while traveling.

Working while traveling may be restricted because of:

- Security requirements
- Internet reliability
- Confidentiality
- Time zone differences
- Legal requirements
- Customer commitments

Employees should obtain approval where required.

30. TIME ZONE REQUIREMENTS

Employees working across different time zones must maintain agreed overlap hours with their team.

Managers may establish core collaboration hours to support effective communication.

Employees are responsible for clearly communicating their working hours when working outside the team's primary time zone.

31. MEETINGS AND COLLABORATION

Teams should make reasonable efforts to ensure remote employees are included in important meetings and discussions.

Important decisions should be documented in approved collaboration or project management systems.

Office-based employees should avoid creating informal decision-making processes that unnecessarily exclude remote team members.

32. PERFORMANCE MONITORING

Nexora may use approved systems to monitor business activity, system security, and operational performance where permitted by law and company policy.

Monitoring may include:

- System access logs
- Security events
- Device health
- Application activity
- Network security events

Monitoring is primarily intended to support security, compliance, and business operations. Employees should not install unauthorized monitoring or tracking software on company devices.

33. REMOTE WORK AND OVERTIME

Remote employees must follow applicable working-hour and overtime requirements.

Employees should obtain manager approval before working additional hours where required by company policy.

Remote work does not eliminate applicable requirements regarding working hours, rest periods, or overtime.

34. SECONDARY EMPLOYMENT

Employees must comply with Nexora's conflict-of-interest and outside-employment requirements while working remotely.

Remote work arrangements must not be used to perform unauthorized work for another employer during Nexora working hours.

Employees must disclose potential conflicts according to company policy.

35. CHILDCARE AND PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITIES

Remote work should not automatically be considered a substitute for childcare or other full-time personal care arrangements.

Employees remain responsible for meeting their job responsibilities during working hours.

Where personal circumstances prevent an employee from working normally, the employee should discuss available leave or flexible-work options with their manager and HR.

36. REMOTE WORK ABROAD

Employees may not work from another country without prior written approval.

Approval may require review by:

- HR
- Legal
- Information Security
- Finance or Tax
- The employee's manager

International remote work may create legal, tax, payroll, immigration, data protection, or employment obligations for the company.

37. LOSS OR THEFT OF EQUIPMENT

Employees must immediately report lost or stolen company equipment to IT and their manager.

Employees should provide relevant information such as:

- Device type
- Asset number
- Approximate time of loss
- Location
- Circumstances

IT may remotely lock, disable, or erase company equipment where appropriate.

38. SECURITY INCIDENTS

Employees must immediately report suspected security incidents.

Examples include:

- Lost company laptop
- Phishing email
- Stolen credentials
- Malware
- Unauthorized access
- Accidental data disclosure
- Suspicious login
- Sending confidential information to the wrong recipient

Employees should not attempt to conceal or independently investigate a serious security incident.

39. ENDING A REMOTE WORK ARRANGEMENT

A remote or hybrid work arrangement may be modified or discontinued due to:

- Business requirements
- Performance concerns
- Security requirements

- Customer requirements
- Changes in role
- Organizational changes
- Failure to comply with this policy

Where practical, employees will be given reasonable notice of significant changes.

40. EMPLOYEE RESPONSIBILITIES

Employees participating in remote work are responsible for:

- Maintaining agreed working hours
 - Completing assigned work
 - Communicating effectively
 - Protecting company information
 - Maintaining company equipment
 - Following security procedures
 - Attending required meetings
 - Reporting issues promptly
 - Complying with all company policies

41. MANAGER RESPONSIBILITIES

Managers are responsible for:

- Establishing clear expectations
- Setting appropriate collaboration schedules
- Monitoring performance fairly
- Supporting remote employees
- Ensuring team communication
- Addressing performance issues appropriately
- Coordinating office attendance requirements
- Escalating security or HR concerns

Managers should evaluate remote employees based on performance and outcomes rather than physical visibility.

42. HUMAN RESOURCES RESPONSIBILITIES

HR is responsible for:

- Maintaining remote-work policies
 - Advising employees and managers
 - Supporting flexible-work arrangements
 - Maintaining applicable employee records
 - Coordinating policy reviews
 - Ensuring consistent administration

43. IT RESPONSIBILITIES

IT is responsible for:

- Providing approved technical equipment
 - Supporting remote access
 - Maintaining security controls
 - Managing company devices
 - Supporting VPN and authentication systems
 - Responding to technical and security incidents

44. POLICY VIOLATIONS

Failure to comply with this policy may result in corrective or disciplinary action.

Examples include:

- Unauthorized sharing of company equipment
- Repeated failure to maintain availability
- Unauthorized access to company systems
- Deliberate security violations
- Unauthorized international remote work
- Misuse of company equipment
- Falsification of working hours
- Unauthorized disclosure of confidential information

Serious violations may result in termination of employment, subject to applicable law.

45. POLICY EXCEPTIONS

Exceptions to this policy require appropriate approval from HR and, where necessary, IT, Legal, Security, or senior management.

Exceptions cannot override applicable legal requirements.

46. POLICY REVIEW

This policy will generally be reviewed annually.

Nexora may update the policy when:

- Technology changes
- Security requirements change
- Business requirements change
- Employment regulations change
- Remote-work practices evolve

Employees will be notified of significant policy changes through official communication channels.

47. RELATED POLICIES

This policy should be read together with:

- Employee Handbook
 - Employee Leave of Absence Policy
 - Information Security Policy
 - Acceptable Use Policy
 - Data Privacy Policy
 - Employee Code of Conduct
 - Business Travel Policy
 - AI Acceptable Use Policy
